Captain Bouncer Smith is a former bouncer who has dedicated his life to helping others. He is the founder of the Bouncer Smith Foundation, which provides support and resources to people who have been affected by violence. Smith is also a motivational speaker and author, and he has shared his story with audiences around the world.

Smith was born in Brooklyn, New York, in 1965. He grew up in a tough neighborhood, and he was often exposed to violence. As a young man, Smith worked as a bouncer at a local bar. He saw firsthand the devastating effects of violence, and he knew that he had to do something to help.

In 2003, Smith founded the Bouncer Smith Foundation. The foundation's mission is to provide support and resources to people who have been affected by violence. The foundation offers a variety of services, including counseling, support groups, and financial assistance. Smith also works with schools and community organizations to provide violence prevention education.

Smith is a passionate advocate for violence prevention. He believes that everyone deserves to live in a safe and peaceful community. He is committed to working with others to create a world where violence is no longer a part of our lives.

In addition to his work with the Bouncer Smith Foundation, Smith is also a motivational speaker and author. He has written two books about his life and his work. His first book, "Bouncer: The Mike Tyson Story," was published in 2005. His second book, "Not Done Yet: A Memoir of Violence Prevention," was published in 2016.

Smith has been recognized for his work by numerous organizations. He has received the Martin Luther King Jr. Award from the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP). He has also been named a "Champion of Change" by the White House. In 2016, Smith was awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian honor.

Smith is a true inspiration. He has dedicated his life to helping others, and he has made a real difference in the world. He is a shining example of how one person can make a difference.
